

Featured Farmer of the Week

Who: Rylan Guillen and Erika Wolfe

What Farm: Champion Club Farm

From: Roseburg, OR

What: Microgreens, salad greens, carrots, other fruits and veggies, and cold-brewed coffee

Where: Umpqua Valley Farmers' Market, Champion Club Farms Pickup/Delivery, Craft 22, Wrappin' and Rollin', Alexander's Greek

About the Farmers: Champion Club Farms was founded in 2016 by Erika Wolfe and Rylan Guillen, in Roseburg, Oregon. Their first plot was in Umpqua, in a family friend's yard. With a focus on natural organic practices, they converted the grass to garden beds, and used that space to experiment producing what would become some of their favorite crops going forward. Lettuce, carrots, tomatoes, cucumbers and onions grew very well there, and they went on to further develop and introduce lesser-known crops like Microgreens to the area.

This material was funded in part by USDA's Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program - SNAP. USDA is an equal opportunity provider and employer. Oregon State University, Oregon State University Extension Service is an Equal Opportunity Provider and Employer.

Salad Greens

June 6, 2020

Featured Farmer of the Week

Who: Rylan Guillen and Erika Wolfe

What Farm: Champion Club Farm

From: Roseburg, OR

What: Microgreens, salad greens, carrots, other fruits and veggies, and cold-brewed coffee

Where: Umpqua Valley Farmers' Market, Champion Club Farms Pickup/Delivery, Craft 22, Wrappin' and Rollin', Alexander's Greek

About the Farmers: Champion Club Farms was founded in 2016 by Erika Wolfe and Rylan Guillen, in Roseburg, Oregon. Their first plot was in Umpqua, in a family friend's yard. With a focus on natural organic practices, they converted the grass to garden beds, and used that space to experiment producing what would become some of their favorite crops going forward. Lettuce, carrots, tomatoes, cucumbers and onions grew very well there, and they went on to further develop and introduce lesser-known crops like Microgreens to the area.

This material was funded in part by USDA's Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program - SNAP. USDA is an equal opportunity provider and employer. Oregon State University, Oregon State University Extension Service is an Equal Opportunity Provider and Employer.

Salad Greens

June 6, 2020

